The translation of science

A UNIQUE INSIGHT INTO THE OPPORTUNITIES IN THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD OUTSIDE OF ACADEMIA

ABOUT DR ALAN TAYLOR

Dr Alan Taylor’s career has included being a scientist, investment banker, entrepreneur and investor. He is currently the Chairman of two start-up companies, Clarity Pharmaceuticals and the Mizzen Group, which are in life sciences and technology respectively. Alan has over 10 years of investment banking experience, and was until recently an Executive Director and shareholder of Inteq Limited, where he remains on the Board of Directors. At Inteq, Alan was involved in some of Australia’s largest ever life sciences IPOs on the ASX.

Alan completed an undergraduate degree in Applied Science at the University of Sydney, where he finished first in his year and won the University Medal. He completed his Ph.D. in Medicine at the Garvan Institute of Medical Research.

COME AND LISTEN TO ALAN OFFER A UNIQUE INSIGHT INTO THE BUSINESS OF SCIENCE OUTSIDE OF ACADEMIA. ALAN WILL DISCUSS:

- Translating a science education
  - From science to investment banking, entrepreneurship and investing
- The science
  - What exactly are we talking about?
- The math
  - The how and why scientists and business people view the world differently
- The industry
  - The Science, the People, the Funding
- The stories
  - Heart pumps, bio-resorbable stents and intestinal sheaths
- Clarity Pharmaceuticals
  - An exploration into the business of personalised medicine
- The Mizzen Group
  - The idea of answering an industry problem with a solution
- Bringing it all together
  - The many skills required to advance scientific and technological discoveries